Inmidtown Habitats Design Competition Q&A

	Question	Answer
A	Can an individual/ firm submit more than one entry and in more than one category? If yes - do we have to pay the entry fee more than once for multiple entries?	Only one entry per individual/firm can be accepted. However, please note that entrants are required to provide proposals for a suite of elements from each category.
B	The competition brief asks for design proposals that comprise: one beehive; one bird-box OR one bat-box; two or three planters. Could you please specify if entries need to include proposals for all of the three categories mentioned above? Conversely, is it acceptable to deliver design proposals for only one or two of those categories?	Entries should include proposals for each of the three categories. Designers are advised to avail themselves of the expert resources regarding each animal's respective needs that have been referred to in the brief.
	We are specialists in bats and birds, not so much bees. Can we just enter for one or two of the typologies, or do we need to enter designs for planters, bees and bird/bat boxes?
C	What is the estimated number of units to be produced at the 'volume manufacture' stage? This information will be useful for estimating the cost of the mass produced items.	As an approximate guide, the client expects to produce in the region of: 25 hives 75 planters 100 bird/bat boxes
	I am participating in the inmidtown competition and I was wondering what are the details for international submissions. I've read over the brief and read the specifics for courier services but is	The alternative submission process offered by our printing partners is open (and indeed intended for) international entrants. For those intending to submit using our printing partners, a pdf copy of all submission materials must be sent to both the printers and

there a way to use the printing services? I find that it might be an easier alternative to use these services rather than the international shipping.	the Architecture Foundation. (A pdf of a completed registration form should also be included in the submission to the printers) Entrants should make direct contact with the printers at the earliest possible time, to ensure their submission is booked in and payment arrangements have been agreed. The printing partners will then print and deliver the submission to the Architecture Foundation by the closing date according to the specifics agreed between entrant and printer. PDF copies for the Architecture Foundation should be sent to habitats@architecturefoundation.org.uk with a subject line of "inmidtown Habitats Submission PDFs" Please note that all printing costs must still be borne by the entrant, and payment organised directly with the chosen printers, although a discount on their regular rates is offered [please ask printer for further details]. Delivery of printed material to The Architecture Foundation without review is done so at entrants own risk. We recommend entrants make contact with the printers at an early stage to ensure adequate lead-in time is allowed, though an absolute minimum of 3 working days is required by both companies. (For those entrants intending to submit printed material directly to the Architecture Foundation, the following should all be delivered together to the Architecture Foundation by the closing date: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- the printed boards and report</li> <li>- a CD with PDF copies of submission materials, and</li> <li>- a completed copy of the registration form, in a sealed envelope.)</li> </ul>
